Re Item II Priority

Earlier WO application WO-A-03088943 D1 published on 30 October 2003 claims the priority date of 13 April 2003. It discloses (see page 2, lines 22-28 and example C on page 13) dry powder pharmaceutical compositions suitable for inhalation comprising a pharmaceutical active agent (such as the beta-2-adrenoreceptor agonists of the present application), an excipient (lactose) and a derivatised carbohydrate in particulate form (cellobiose acetate). Particulate derivatised carbohydrates (cellobiose octaacetate) are used in order to improve stability performance, for example, by reducing the deterioration in fine particle fraction following exposure and humidity.

The subject matter of claims 12,13,18 and 19 is therefore explicitly anticipated in D1: It is also stressed that a newly discovered technical effect (such as chemical interaction or chemical degradation) does not confer novelty on a claim directed to the use of a known substance for a known non-medical purpose (improved stability) if the newly discovered technical effect already underlies the known use of the known substance. Consequently, the subject-matter of claims 1-11,14-17 is implicitly anticipated in D1.

The application GB0316335 (date of filing 11 July 2003) to which the priority claim of the present application is directed, is therefore not the application disclosing for the first time some of the subject-matter of the present EP application. As some of the subject-matter as described above was disclosed in a still earlier application D1 originating from the same applicant (Glaxo Group Limited), the application GB0316335 is in fact not the "first application" in the sense of Article 8 PCT (see also Guidelines C.V.1.4). Therefore, the priority claim is invalid for the subject-matter already disclosed in the still earlier application D1 and document D1 will be considered as forming part of the prior art.

Re Item III

Non-establishment of opinion with regard to novelty, inventive step and industrial applicability

For the assessment of the present claim 19 on the question whether it is industrially applicable, no unified criteria exist in the PCT Contracting States. The patentability can also be dependent upon the formulation of the claims. The EPO, for example, does not recognize as industrially applicable the subject-matter of claims to the use of a compound in medical treatment, but may allow, however, claims to a known compound for first use in medical treatment and the use of such a compound for the manufacture of a medicament for a new medical treatment.

Re Item V

Reasoned statement under Article 35(2) with regard to novelty, inventive step or industrial applicability; citations and explanations supporting such statement

1. Cited Document

The following document D1 is referred to in this communication; the numbering will be adhered to in the rest of the procedure:

D1: WO 03/088943 A (BULSARA PALLAV ARVIND; GLAXO GROUP LTD (GB); ROCHE TREVOR CHARLES (GB) 30 October 2003 (2003-10-30)

2. Novelty

A newly discovered technical effect (such as chemical interaction or chemical degradation) does not confer novelty on a claim directed to the use of a known substance for a known non-medical purpose (improved stability) if the newly discovered technical effect already underlies the known use of the known substance.

D1 discloses (see page 2, lines 22-28 and example C on page 13) the use of particulate derivatised carbohydrates (cellobiose octaacetate) in dry powder pharmaceutical compositions for inhalation therapy in order to improve stability performance. Said compositions further comprise a pharmaceutical active agent (like the beta2-adrenoreceptor agonists of the present application) and an excipient (lactose). The subject-matter of claims 1-19 is therefore not new (Article 33(2) PCT).

3. Inventive Step

Claims 1-19 not being new are also not inventive (Article 33(3) PCT).

4. Industrial applicability

Claim 19 relates to subject-matter considered by this Authority to be covered by the provisions of Rule 67.1(iv) PCT. Consequently, no opinion will be formulated with respect to the industrial applicability of the subject-matter of these claims (Article 34(4)(a)(i) PCT). Claims 1-18 satisfy the criterion of industrial applicability set forth in Article 33(4) PCT.
